TUNNEY GETS DECISION

OLD MANASSA MAULER HAS CHAMP ON FLOOR IN SEVENTH; GENE CUTS DEMPSEY TO PIECES

By DAMON RUNYON

(Universal Service Staff Correspondent Coypright, 1927)

SOLDIERS FIELD, Chicago, Sept. 22.—Down on the canvass for a count for the first time in his boxing career, sniffing the resin dust there with the murderous old Manassa Man Mauler glowering over him with evil intent, Gene Tunney, the fighting Marine, got up and carried on to victory against Jack Dempsey tonight.

WENT TEN HARD ROUNDS

He got the decision of the Judges, George Lighten, and Sheldon Clark, Chicago business men and of Referee Dave Barry, an old time boxer, at the end of ten desperate rounds.

TUNNEY ON BACK IN 7th

It was in the seventh round Dempsey swarmed all over the big blonde New York, knocking him down—not with one punch but with a wild rain of smashes as Tunney fell flat on his broad back, then sat up, his pallid features pinched with the strangest expression of bewilderment and it seemed to me some embarrassment.

A man who has never been the floor before in a fight can-

ROUND ONE

Dempsey missed with a left hook to the jaw and they clinched. Tunney put in a light left to the body in the break. Jack missed another left hook and Tunney shot a light left to the face and they clinched.

Gene was boxing and Dempsey looking for a chance to lead. Tunney came in and got two light lefts to the face and they locked again. Jack missed and Tunney put in a hard left to the body and a right cross to the jaw.

They boxed and were very careful. Tunney came in and shot in a light right to the body and they clinched. Tunney put in a hard

"He's A Real Champion" Says Dempsey; "Won By Boxing," Tunney Statement

Copyright 1927
(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Gene Tunney said tonight after his fight with Jack Dempsey:

"I don't think there should have been any doubt in the peoples' mind after tonight which is the better man. I won the title in Philadelphia by outboxing Dempsey. I retained it tonight by fighting him. I never felt that I was in danger even in the seventh round. It was then that all my months of training and careful year-around conditioning came out. My head cleared rapidly and I was ready for anything.

"Dempsey fought gamely, I'll say that for him, but I have no hestitation in saying that if we fought a dozen times the outcome would be the same."

Ringside statement by Jack Dempsey.

"There's not much for me to say, except that I was beaten again tonight by a man who demonstrated beyond all question of doubt that he is the better man. I felt in the sevent that the championship had come back to me, that I had shattered that old stuff alone, "Hhey don't come back"; but the gameness of Tunney, his recuperating power and his generalship saved him then, won him the fight, and perpetuates him as the champion of the world.

I take my hat off to him. He is a real champion, worthy of the name."

$6,300 Reported Raised In "Y" Fund Drive

$6,396.25 was reported in at a regular report meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Financial campaign last evening. Of this amount, $508 was reported by C. E. Parker, Plant A men; $466 by Dr. W. W. Giberson's Plant B, teams; while $451 was reported by E. L. Scofield's Plant B. To date 451 different contributions have been recorded. Gang 4, B. E. Scoble, foreman, are leading all the other gangs with $947.50 raised.

Charles S. Benwick, general manager, expressed confidence of the success of the campaign and every effort will be made today to see the remaining prospects.

Thru the courtesy of C. R. Alexander, who installed a radio set in the association, all the men working on the campaign were able to listen in on the Dempsey-Tunney returns after making their reports.

To date the different departments have raised the following sums.

Plant A.—C. E. Parker, superintendent, $2495.

Plant B—Dr. W. W. Giberson, superintendent, $1935.

Plant C—E. L. Scofield, Superintendent, $1966.25.

Girl Prodigy In High School At Age Of Eleven

Born in Richmond October 20, 1915, 11 year old Dorothy Messick has just entered the Pittsburg high school as a freshman, where she is the youngest student registered.

"She remembers everything" says her mother, in explaining her daughter's rapid strides through grammar school. Dorothy began school in Sacramento at the age of 7. In four years, Dorothy finished the entire grammar school course that ordinarily requires twice that length of time.

To her mother her daughter's remarkable aptitude for grasping knowledge in one-half the usual time is gratifying, but not strange.

"I attribute it to her power of memory," Dorothy's mother explained. "Once she reads or does a thing, she never forgets the material or process. The teachers just keep on promoting her. They say she seems to outgrow her class and when that occurs they elevate her."

Rotary Club To Hear Man From San Rafael

Helms To Attend Convention Of School Heads

City Superintendent of Schools W. T. Thomas will be on the program of the annual convention of county, city and district school superintendents called by William John Cooper, superintendent of public instruction, for the first week in October at Coronado.

The opening meeting on Monday October 3 will be presided over by Superintendent Cooper after which the meetings will be presided over by various superintendents throughout the state.

Two of the most important addresses will be given by A. R. Heron, director of finance in Governor, C. C. Young's council, and Cooper. The first will explain the governor's reorganization plan in general and the latter the reorganization of the department of education. There also will be reports from the new retirement salary and law codification commissions and discussions of important educational problems.

"Big Parade" To Square Big Fight Wagers On Deck Today

All line up for "The Big Parade"

Following closely on the heels of the decision by which Gene Tunney retained his title as heavyweight champion of the world came a flock of bills to be paid, and an almost equal number of "freak wagers" to be run off.

And, to get back to "The Big Parade." Richmond people will this afternoon have an opportunity to see a spectacle of one lady pulling another in a express wagon of kiddies' size up Macdonald avenue to the Princeton Knitting Mills and then "down town" again

It seems that some weeks ago a scene something like the following transpired:

Mrs. Bugmann (proprietor of the Belle Beauty parlor) "That boy Dempsey hasn't a chance. Tunney will knock him for the well known apple cart."

Mrs. Carr (employed in the shop) "WHAT! Why say, Dempsey could flatten (or words to that effect) any false alarm like Tunney in nothing flat, and I don't mean to whisper."

Mrs. Bugmann: "Ha, ha, and a sumptuous quantity of the old raspberry."

Mrs. Carr: "All right, you mark my words. I'm telling you, and it's no plastic clay I'm spreading either."

Mrs. Bugmann: "Dempsey needs a marcel: Tunney will give it to him."

Mrs. Carr: "Dempsey will put Tunney in the psychopathic ward before he's done."

Mrs. Bugmann: "Ha, ha, maybe so! Dempsey will be under observation and Tunney will be an attendant, if that's the case."

Mrs. Carr: "Alright, if Tunney wins I'll drag you all over town in a kiddie car."

Mrs. Bugmann: "Taken!"

And the "compact" is reported to have been sealed, after both ladies had exhausted their "powder" supply.

All hands on deck for "The Big Parade," It starts at 6:30 tonight at Tenth street and Macdonald avenue.

Playground Chief To Visit Here

The park and playground commission of Richmond will confer with George W. Braden, secretary of the Playground Association of America, this morning at 10 o' clock in Hotel Carquinez. Ways and means of improving the system in Richmond will be discussed.

COTTON FABRIC IN AUTO TIRES WILL BE MADE

Cotton fabric for use in making automobile tires will be manufactured at a new plant to be erected at Clyde by the Pacific Coast Cotton Mills, Inc., according to word received from Fresno yesterday.

TO COST $200,000

The new plant will be constructed at a cost of $200,000, according to the Fresno report, which states that Captain Frank Green, of Delano, head of the San Joaquin Valley Cotton Growers Association, is heading the venture.

The Fresno Bee commenting on the plant states:

"California tires, made of California fabric woven from California cotton will be used by many California motorists when the $250-000 textile mill now in course of construction at Clyde, Contra Costa county, is completed and put in operation early next year.

"An outlet for the San Joaquin valley's cotton crop will be afforded. and since the plant will make only tire fabric, cotton slightly discolored by rain will not be barred, as the off color does not affect the tensile strength and durability of the fiber, it is said.

"Captain Frank Green of Delano head of the San Joaquin Valley Cotton Growers' Association, is interested financially in the Clyde plant, which is being built by the Pacific Coast Cotton Mills, Inc. According to Green, the Pacific Coast Shipbuilding company of San Francisco, is one of the main sponsors of the mill.

"With a number of automobile tire manufacturing plants in bay cities and Southern California, it is Green's opinion that the entire output of the mill will be absorbed in this state.

"The San Joaquin Valley's Acaca cotton, of good staple strength is considered ideal for tire fabric, and commands a premium. This fact had its influence in the decision of the textile company to specialize on this product, Green said."

It was said that actual construction of the plant has not started but that indications are that building will get under way shortly.

Clyde, with its homes and hotel it has been pointed out, and its proximity to rail and water transportation, affords an excellent site for the type of plant contemplated.

Richmond "Tells The World" In Program Over Radio

Richmond last night "told the world" the advantages to be gained by living here and the future of the city. Prominent citizens of the city spoke over radio KFWM on a program prepared under the auspices of the local chamber of commerce.

Mayor Mattie Chandler greeted the vast audience and welcomed them to Richmond. She thanked the radio station for the opportunity given Richmond to tell of its benefits.

In the absence of Fred Parr, president of the Parr Terminal company who was scheduled to speak on the program, Attorney Hill W. Saunders chose as his subject: "Henry Ford Comes to Richmond." He declared that Parr was absent in the east working on projects that will mean future benefits to Richmond and the Eastbay.

He stated that Ford selected Richmond for his greatest Pacific Coast plant in good-natured competition with other coast cities. The city council, chamber of commerce and Parr were the chief factors in securing the plant for Richmond by presenting the benefits to be found here in the way of transportation, water, schools, climate and port potentialities.

The plant means an investment of $5,000,000, an employment of 1,500 and an annual payroll of approximately $1,500,000.

P. M. Sanford, president of the chamber of commerce, spoke on the function of a chamber of commerce and told what the local one had accomplished.

It has been instrumental in erecting the new Hotel Carquinez the passage of $800,000 in bonds for building the new high school, the $100,000 in bonds for the municipal natatorium and aided in the voting of the $690,000 in bonds for harbor improvements.

City Attorney Thomas M. Carlson spoke of Richmond's premier position on San Francisco bay as a place to live in and bring up children. He called attention to the fact that Richmond was the fourth payroll city in the state and was located in Contra Costa county, the fourth in value of industrial output in the state.

He spoke of the 21 miles of coastline of Richmond and its environs and predicted that the small city of Richmond within a few years would be one of the greatest cities on the Pacific Slope.

The speaking was interspersed with musical numbers, which included solos and duets by Mrs. Elsa Gilreath Calfee, soprano and S. A. Marshall, baritone and piano numbers by Emil Esola.

These numbers were especially pleasing to the radio fans who

Realtors And Lions Primed For Orgy Of Blood Today

We knew that there was something up when Bob Smith played for the Kiwanians against the Realtors. Couldn't figure it out at first, a Lion playing for a Kiwanis team. It was Revenge! But he didn't get it, not in that game. The Kiwanis team beat the Realtors.

WANTS REVENGE

And Bob is still nursing his revenge. But he swears he'll get it today. The Lions meet the Realtors at First street park for a rip-snorting ball game. And what the Lions threaten to do to the Realtors—

Well about Bob's revenge. It seems that fifteen or twenty years back—what's a few years one way or another?—some Real Estate shark sold him a couple of lots somewhere.

And all these years, Bob has been trying his best to dispose of these lots to some other gullible person, without success. Hence his revenge.

Bob has recovered from a fall he got trying to cop a fly while catching for the Kiwanians. It is rumored that Doc Root forgot his enmity, seeing that Bob was willing to fight for the Kiwanians against the Realtors, and gave him some of his strongest linement to apply to the damaged section of his anatomy.

REALTORS GRIN

Paul Adkins only smiled over the telphone last night when he heard of Bob's thirst for revenge and said that Bob would more than likely have another revenge coming to him after the game today.

Well, we're neutral. Bet your money if you want to—those of you that have any left after yesterday.

Here's the lineup to guide you:

Realtors—O. Ripley, 1b; E. Burg, 3b; Conlon, ss; Settle, c; Hays 2b; Crane, rf; Bolt, cf; A. Ripley lf; J. Burg, p; Davis, p; Spur, 3b.

Lions—Doc Boehmer, cf; John Miller, p; Ed Burg, 2b; Bob Smith c; Clint Smith ss; Mylander, 1b; Louis Burke, 3b; F. Caudle rf; Ed. Hoffman, lf.

Marcus Is Aquitted Of Charge

Harry Marcus, Richmond merchant, charged with concealment of assets and violation of the bankruptcy act, was acquitted in the United States district court yesterday afternoon, after the jury had been out but eight minutes.

"Character witnesses" put on the stand by the defense had much to do with the verdict, it was reported. These included B. F. Schlessinger, large department store manager of San Francisco, Sheriff R. R. Veale, Dr. Thomas A. Boyer, county probation officer of Contra Costa county and P. M. Sanford, president of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

Richmond School Census Nearing Completion

School registration of local minors has been partially completed under the direction of A. H. Shipley, elementary school district census director, as the final preparatory step to the triennial registration of all minors below the age of fifteen required by state law. Shipley states that he will head a staff of over fifty registrars in visiting homes and listing every minor in the district between the dates of October 1, and 8. The district includes Richmond El Cerrito and portions of unincorporated San Pablo and Kensington.

Registration of children below school age has been facilitated by the school registration, when each student listed younger brothers and sisters. Completion of the census will be followed by a summarization of the statistics obtained, expected to take several weeks to complete.

MILDRED SPIRES TO WED WILLARD SMITH

Miss Mildred Spires and Willard Smith, both of Richmond yesterday filed application for a marriage license with the county clerk in Martinez. They will be married Saturday evening.

The Beacon chapter sewing club meets this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Furseth, 723 Thirty-ninth street.

FARMERS FOR MARINE

The American farmer in the west and north wants the American merchant marine and wants it maintained according to Malcolm Stewart, a chamber of commerce authority who recently made a tour of many of the western and northwestern states. Mr. Stewart declares that the farmers remember what happened to their commodities at the beginning of the World War when British and German ships were diverted from carrying our American products.

Foreign ships, it is to be remembered in time of national crisis naturally look after the needs of their own nation first and our commerce, if we have no marine of our own, is left in the lurch. The most recent example of this fact was the great British coal strike of 1926, British ships were needed to carry coal to England and the products of American farmers began to pile up in our ports with no British to take them. In this crisis the shipping board acted quickly and saved the agricultural interests of the country from what might have a mounted to several million dollars.

How To Earn Money!

LUCY D.

Many housekeepers would be only too glad to have a woman come in for an hour or two in the evening to wash up the dinner dishes or perhaps to help with an evening party. You might be able also to care for children while their parents are away. A little ad might help you. Also apply to the various apartment houses in your neighborhood.

I would like to earn a little extra money. I am a retired teacher. I can sew and embroider. What do you advise? DORA S.

If I were you I would utilize my time teaching English to foreigners. If possible organize a little evening class. You might use part of your spare time in coaching backward children. Your experience as a teacher would fit you admirably for such work.

I would like to get orders for tatting. What would you advise?
MRS. W.

The women's exchange may be able to give you private orders. Just at present the market for tatting is not very good. Why don't you try rug making or some form of needlework that is more popular?

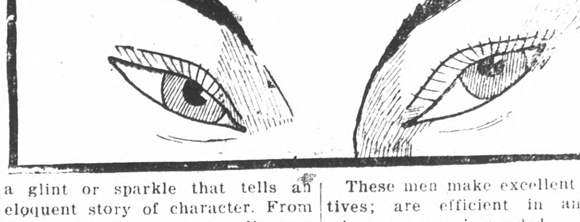
THE MIND BEHIND THOSE OBLIQUE FOXY EYES

Large or small, light or dark, blue or brown, deep set or full, in a man's eyes shines his soul. Every thought and feeling registers in the eyes, involuntarily.

When these expressions—such as fear, dislike, courage and affection—become habitual, they give a glint or sparkle that tells an eloquent story of character. From the teacher trying to discover who threw a paper wad to the judge on the bench, the real Sherlock Holmes looks into the eyes of the accused to find there guilt or innocence.

If a man with these oblique eyes come before the bar of justice the odds are against him, for it has been said that he is an artificial character. The oblique eyes, particularly where the pupil is glassy, glaring and cannot look you in the eye are indicative of shrewdness and cunning. They are eyes that will bear watching, as they have a hypnotic power of influencing. If you have business dealing with this individual, better "keep your eyes open."

This individual is always very sauve and has a society manner which is fascinating. But he is the man who, like the chameleon, takes on the color of his surrounding. While he is with you, he will agree with you. If you are a Democrat, he is a Democrat—until you have turned around.



These men make excellent detectives; are efficient in any job where secrecy is needed.

Deftness with Tools

These men are splendid judges of quality and posses great deftness manipulating fine machinery or tools. They are artistic and possess an extraordinary sense of color.

This type of eye is rare, but occasionally found. The color of the eye modifies the tendencies and disposition of this individual.

When these folks have trained against and mastered their negative qualities they are absolutely wonderful people.

"All the powers of mind are good when expressed in moderation."

Lady Gray Tells Girls How To Fatten Those Thin Arms

By LADY BEATRICE GREY

Thin arms are the bane of any young girl who is in search of real beauty. She can never wear the dainty sleeveless evening frock with complete comfort. She always has the self-consciousness of her "pipe-stem" arms.

I have known girls with beautiful faces whose charm has been completely lost because they find it almost impossible to wear evening frocks becomingly. One girl in particular has used all kinds of camouflage to hide her one failing. It was at the beginning of summer that she wrote me for help. "I simply cannot face another winter of parties with my thin arms. I am determined to use this summer to good advantage. Is there anything I can do?"

I helped her plan a schedule of exercise. The other day she was in to see me, face beaming.

"For the first time in my life I can get an evening dress without a thought as to whether it has flowing draperies or long sleeves. I wish you would write something in your column about it. For there must be other girls with thin arms who would like to know what to do."

Of course, I can't make out a blanket guarantee that this will make thin arms plump. All I know is that it helped one girl, and in all probability the same routine will help any one who will conscientiously follow it. She can't expect to follow the rules one day and forget them the next and show results. She must really be diligent about it and work hard. But the results, I will promise you, will be worth the effort.

Thin arms as a rule, come from lack of muscular exercise.

Every morning spend fifteen minutes on arm exercises. A pair of dumbbells, rather heavy even in the beginning, are excellent. I advise swimming three times a week. Rowing will help. Even in the city you can do this once a week. There are boats in all the public parks. When winter comes you can simulate this exercise.

As well as muscular development your arms need skin nutrition.

Massage them morning and evening with cocoa butter. Don't just rub the butter on, BUT RUB IT IN. Massage with a brisk, circular movement—not lackadaisically. BUT FORCEFULLY.

Pay good attention to your diet during this, and eat food containing plenty of good nourishment.

Don't expect miracles to happen It will take weeks, perhaps months to build up the arm tissues. But determination and grit will reward you in the end.

Questions concerning beauty building through physical culture will receive the personal attention of Lady Grey, beauty culturist, and should be signed by the writer's full name and address, which wil not be used without permission. Address her, care of this newspaper.

Latest Parisian Footgear Want Simple Effects

Plain pumps for women will be the style in footwear if the Paris arbiters have their usual influence on styles in the United States.

New plain-vamp models and straight-lined pumps of plain colors are becoming popular in Paris, in contrast with the many radical shapes and designs lately observed in women's shoes according to reports to the Commerce Department from the French city.

The most prominent colors appearing during the early summer were of plain white kid, blue, mauve and pale green. The Charles IX. shape or plain pump model with bar at the instep is reported to be one of the best sellers.

Many of the Paris shoe shops are vying with each other in efforts to place on the market models of the finest kid on which are skillfully executed artistic hand-painted designs of tinted flowers and ornamental garlands. As a result dress makers in Paris are also featuring style creations in robes, coats and hosiery, with hats and bags to harmonize.

While the decided trend is toward simplicity in color lines, many retailers are showing models built along cubistic shapes for the summer. All colors imaginable are woven into these new intricate designs, with the trimmings and straps sometimes designed with bright gold kid interpersed with lines of silver, pale pink and blue kid skin. Many smart models are seen in old rose, shell gray, pale lilac and apple green, trimmed with various shades of crocodile or lizard skin.

Antelope skin has been used extensively by many leather dealers who report it an excellent material for upper and ornamental trimmings. The most popular colors in this leather are rust, gray, black and sand. Antelope leather also harmonizes artistically with all shades of kid and reptile skins.

SYNOPSIS

In 1896 Bob, son of Hank Armstrong, a horse fancier, knowing his father's hatred of machines, is secretly inventing gasoline engines and openly courting Rose Robbins. Several years later, Hank, roused to fury by his discovery of his son's love for automobiles, horsewhips the boy. Bob is saved from a cruel beating only through the intervention of Rose. Stung by Steve Bentley's taunts about the affair, Bob thrashes his rival in love. Bob decides he must make his own way in the world and asks Rose to promise to marry him on his return. She promises, saying that he can trust her to be true. Now—

Bob continued his way up the street, reviewing the events of the past hour moodily. He was glad Steve had given him the opportunity of a fight. It did his heart good to take that crack at his rival. He had, up to this time, restrained himself when he felt like knocking the young man down. But now he had vented his dislike of all Steve's doings, and had settled innumerable old scores, such as the incidents in the drug store and at the Mayor's reception.

Furthermore, the fight had removed, to some extent, the anger that had rankled in his mind when his father had struck him. Then he had been unable to strike back. But now he had rid himself of all the repression he had suffered when he had dropped his raised fists in respect for parenthood and age. Like a fog bank gradually lifting over a storm tossed sea, the mists in his mind began to clear. True, his brain still fomented with the hurt and humiliation just received, but now he felt a man again. He must begin to face facts, realities. He squared his shoulders, as though taking a new lease on life, and paced on.

"All I want is your promise to wait for me, Rose."

It was necessary for him to come to a definite decision, he thought. He could no longer remain in Maple City—not because he was afraid of the jeers of any of his companions, for he had completely killed any future attempts at such ribaldry by licking Steve. But insofar as he could see, Maple City held no opportunity for his work. His last home tie was severed. He could no longer remain under the same roof with his father. He must strike out on his own. Go some place where he could find his chance and prove what he could do.

Yes, that was it. He must prove his ideas. The town might laugh and scoff, but he'd show them. He'd prove to his father, too, that machines were to have their day. He'd earn the respect of even the unbelievers. But where to go—what to do. He might turn to the nearest large city, Detroit. There, he knew, this man, Henry Ford, and someone called Barney Oldfield, were striding ahead in their experiments with automobiles. If he could only obtain a position there!

But what about Rose? His thoughts ran swiftly to the girl who had so bravely faced his father's wrath in his defense. He hated to leave Rose—but could he take her with him? No, that would be impossible. He had no money, no job, nothing to offer a girl brought up in a well-to-do home. He couldn't ask Rose to face poverty, perhaps even defeat, with him. He'd have to go it alone. But, suppose, while he was gone, Rose should marry some one else. No, no! That couldn't—mustn't happen. He realized now that it was Rose he wanted—now, when he couldn't ask her to come to him.

Perhaps he had better talk things over with the girl. He didn't want to tie her to years of indefinite waiting, yet he couldn't leave without having some understanding. He must go—he knew that. He turned his footsteps in the direction of the Mayor's house.

CHAPTER XIII

As he opened the gate of the Robbins' home he saw Rose, swinging in the hammock on the front porch. At the sight of the girl his new-found courage failed him, and he would have turned back. But his indecision lasted for only a moment. He took a deep breath and ran up the steps.

"I—came, because I had to talk to you, Rose," he began, pulling a high-backed rocking chair closer to the swing. "It's about my going away."

Rose nodded. A sickening feeling swept over her. What if Bob left without — without — She couldn't face it. To see Bob go without saying anything to her—without telling her he loved her, Yet he had come to talk to her. But it might be of his plans. And was she to have any place in those plans? Bob had so often come to talk over his problems—but they were problems that had nothing to do with her heart's desire.

"It's just this, Rose," Bob was going on, haltingly. "I don't feel that I can stay here any longer after what happened—what—well, you know, what happened this morning."

"I know, Bob. It's all right. Let's not talk about that," Rose found her voice and tried to help the boy along. "But where do you think you're going, and what are you going to do?"

"Well, I don't exactly know," Bob admitted, "but I'd been thinking about Detroit, for one thing. You know, there, Rose, there's a factory where they're building automobiles, and I thought that if maybe I could get started there, and learn more about machinery, I might be able to go on with my ideas."

"I—I think that's splendid, Bob," Rose answered, attempting to be cheerful, but there was a little catch in her voice. "And I think you would do very well there—I'm sure you would."

"Anyhow, I can try it," Bob continued. "I've got to do something. And what chance is there for me if I stay here?"

Rose shook her head.

"But that wasn't just exactly what I wanted to say, Rose." Bob tried to turn his subject in another direction, but he found difficulties besetting his path. "I—er—that is —well, I love you, Rose, and I wanted you to marry me," he burst out.

"Oh, Bob!" Rose cried happily. "Bob!" Her eyes filled with tears, but she laughed gently and held out her hand to the boy.

"But, Rose, you understand, don't you?" He took her hand bashfully and patted it. "You see I can't ask you to really marry me until I get started at some kind of work. I don't even know whether I can get a job in Detroit or not, but I'm going to try my best. And if you—if you think—"

"Oh, Bob," Rose looked at him tenderly, "don't you know I'd go any place with you? I don't care."

"You're wonderful, Rose, but I can't ask you to share my hardships. I want you to have everything—everything I can give you." Protective manhood was asserting itself. "I don't think it would be fair to you to ask you to go through all this with me. But, Rose, all I want is your promise to wait for me. Will you give me that?"

"Of course I will, Bob," Rose assented.

"Well, with you in my mind I know I'm going to make good." Bob squeezed the girl's hand tightly. "Why, just thinking that you're back here, waiting for me, will make me find a job. It'll be something to work for. And I'm coming back just as soon as ever I can. You won't have to wait long."

"But it will seem long," murmured Rose, wistfully.

"I know. It's going to seem like a long time to me, too." Bob pressed his sweetheart's hand. "But it will be so wonderful when we can—when we—when I do get back," he stammered.

The two sat gazing at each other, thinking only the thoughts that lovers can think. It was a great moment in both their lives. And life is made up of only a few great moments such as these. The rest is existence.

"But you're not going to give Steve Bentley a chance to take my place while I'm gone?" Bob questioned jealously, possessively.

"Bob! How could you?" Rose bridled at the thought. "Of course I won't. I never really did like Steve."

"Oh, I don't mean that I want you to sit here and never do anything while I'm gone." Bob threw out his chest, feeling that he could afford to be generous now that he was the complete victor. "But I don't like him, and I don't like him snooping around too much. I don't trust him."

"Don't worry, Bob." Rose patted his hand. "You can trust me."

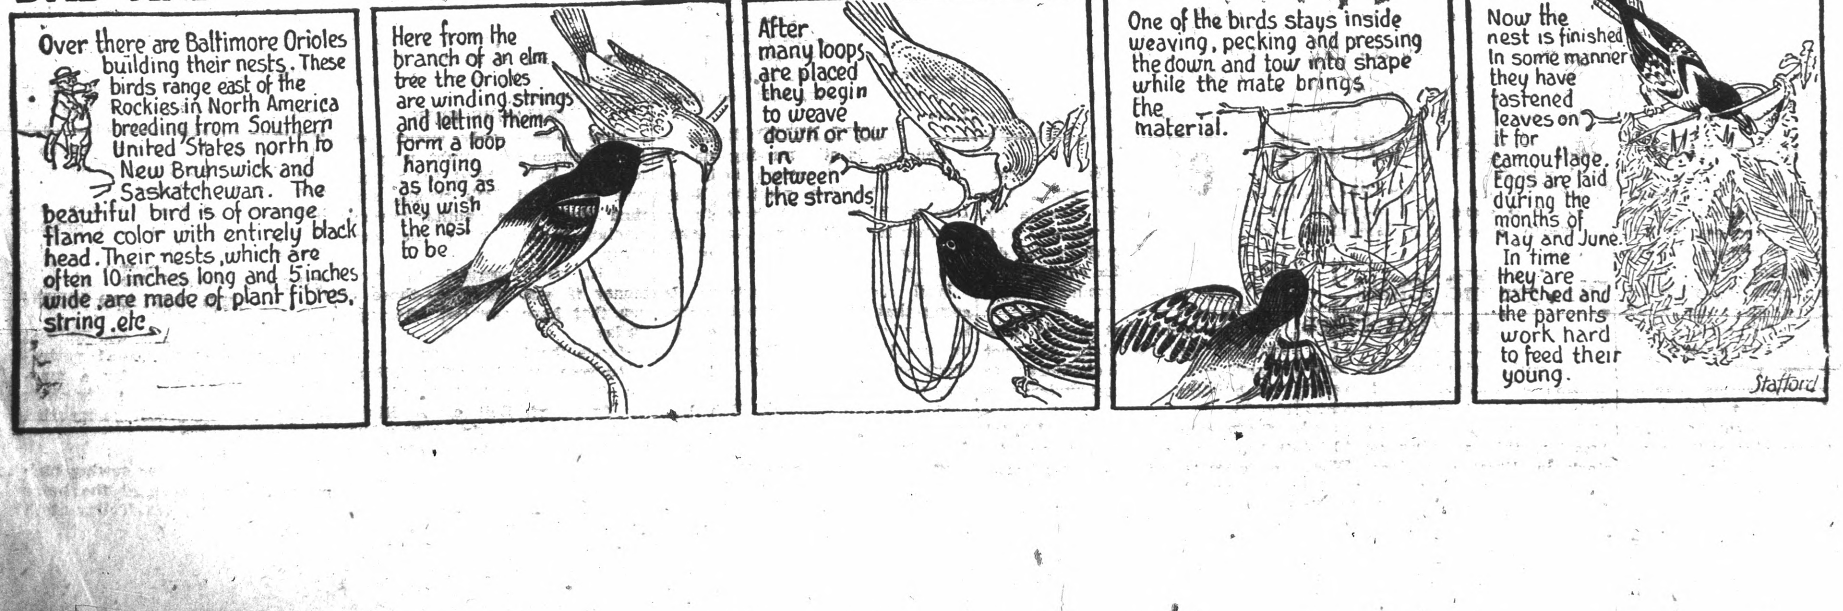
DAD AND I

By Stafford



Over there are Baltimore Orioles building their nests. These birds range east of the Rockies in North America breeding from Southern United States north to New Brunswick and Saskatchewan. The beautiful bird is of orange flame color with entirely black head. Their nests, which are often 10 inches long and 5 inches wide, are made of plant fibres, string, etc.
Here from the branch of an elm tree the Orioles are winding strings and letting them form a loop hanging as long as they wish the nest to be
After many loops are placed they begin to weave down or tow in between the strands
One of the birds stays inside weaving, pecking and pressing the down and tow into shape while the mate brings the material.
Now the nest is finished. In some manner they have fastened leaves on it for camouflage. Eggs are laid during the months of May and June. In time they are hatched and the parents work hard to feed their young.

MILTON SILLS NOW FEATURED AT CALIFONIA

Virile roles that prove the quality of a real man have fallen to the lot of Milton Sills' naturally, because of his own character and appearance. He is a powerful man with a powerful mentality and both have been brought to play in his First National Pictures, the latest of which is called "The Sea Tiger" will be seen at the California theatre for two days starting today.

In this film Sills is a fisherman, a lowly occupation perhaps, but one demanding a maximum of courage to fight the stormy seas off the Canary Islands where the story is laid. He does a tremendous piece of acting and his work throughout is characterized by its vividness. Mary Astor is his leading woman and John Francis Dillon directed the picture.

Carey Wilson, who adapted the story by Mary Heaton Vorse, also produced it for First National.

Other features on the same program include "The Tennis Wizard," an Earle Foxe comedy; "Glory That Was Greece," a Fox "Variety"; "International News"; and Larry Canelo, at the organ.

Inquest Held In Guidici Death

Coroner Aubrey Wilson last night conducted an inquest at the Wilson & Kratzer chapel into the death of Alex Guidici, who died several days ago, after being struck by an automobile on San Pablo avenue in El Cerrito. The jury found that death was accidental and placed no blame.

Witnesses to the accident testified that Guidici, who had been watching men at work paving the avenue, stepped into the machine which was traveling at a low rate of speed owing to the men at work.

Seek Gun That Killed Doctor

STATE TROOPER and members of the posse trailing the assassin of Dr. William Lilliendahl in a lonely road near Hammonton, N. J., are shown here combing the underbrush for clues. A minute examination of the ground failed to convince the authorities that robbery was the motive, and they have practically abandoned the hunt for negroes who, the doctor's wife said, held them up. They are still questioning Mrs. Lilliendahl and there are hints of a triangle in the case.

"SLIDE KELLEY SLIDE" PLAYS AT RICHMOND

A delegation that might literally be termed a convention of famous professional baseball players was gathered together at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, when famous players from almost every league in America donned uniform and added grease paint to play in "Slide, Kelly, Slide," now playing at the Richmond Theatre.

In the new Metro-Goldywn-Mayer baseball romance, featuring William Haines, Sally O'Neil, Harry Carey, Karl Dane and other noted screen actors, are names that practically make a "blue book" of the great American game.

Notable among the professional ball players in the picture are Mike Donlin, greatest hitter in the history of baseball and former idol of the New York Giants, Bob Meusel, "Irish" Meusel and Tony Lazzeri, stars of the recent world series and famous Yanks; C. T. Twombley of Jersey City; Koupal of Pittsburgh; Bob Murray of Kansas City; Bill Ludelph of Detroit; Perry O'Brien of the Philadelphia Athletics; Golvin of San Antonio; Red Oldham of Pittsburgh; Wilkinson of the White Sox, and others.

HAINES HEADS NOTABLE CAST

Haines plays the redoubtable Kelly, a "busher" who becomes a major league star, and Carey is the veteran catcher who trains him. Others in the cast are Dorothy Sebastian, Karl Dane, Eileen Sedgwick, Warner Richmond, Tenen Holtz, Paul Kelly, Guinn Williams, and others of equal note.

Other film features include "Snookums Buggy Ride," a comedy scream; and Felix in "Dough Nutty," a Felix the Cat cartoon comedy.

Hanna Vs. Toll Bridge Company Again To Fore

MARTINEZ, Sept. 22.—Valona's now famous "red brick house" came into prominence today when the quiet title suit of Thomas Toll bridge co. was called up for trial before Junde A. B. McKenzie.

The case at issue today, one of several instituted by Hanna against the bridge company involves the right of the bridge company to move the red brick house from its former location to a point beneath the bridge approach where it stands on a piece of ground .7 acres in area and which Hanna claims ws condemned exclusively for brigesupport uses.

It was over this same red brick house that the Hanna-John R. Hanford physical encounter took place some months ago, Courtney L. Moore is Hanna's attorney in the action and J. E. Rodgers and A. F. Bray represent the bridge company.

Wales Mother May Pick Bride

ROYAL PRINCESS GIOVANNA OF ITALY (above), whose hand in marriage is sought by many princely and royal suitors. She has been among the numerous princesses mentioned as possible bride of the Prince of Wale, but it is believed that because Giovanna is a Catholic the marriage would not be approved. Opinion is growing that a consort for Wales will be chosen from among the daughters of great English houses, not necessarily of royal degree, and that the choice will be made soon.

Divorce Asked From Richmond Barber

MARTINEZ, Sept. 22.— Suit for separate maintenance was filed here today by Mrs. Evelyn A. Alloro against Albert L. Alloro, Richmond barber, in which she asks to be allowed $75 monthly for support in addition to a one-half share of community property valued at $8500. Mrs. Alloro filed suit for divorce some months ago, but it was subsequently dismissed.

Mr. Alloro charges in her complaint that her husband declined to allow relatives to visit her. They married in 1921 and a separation occurred September 19, according to the complaint.

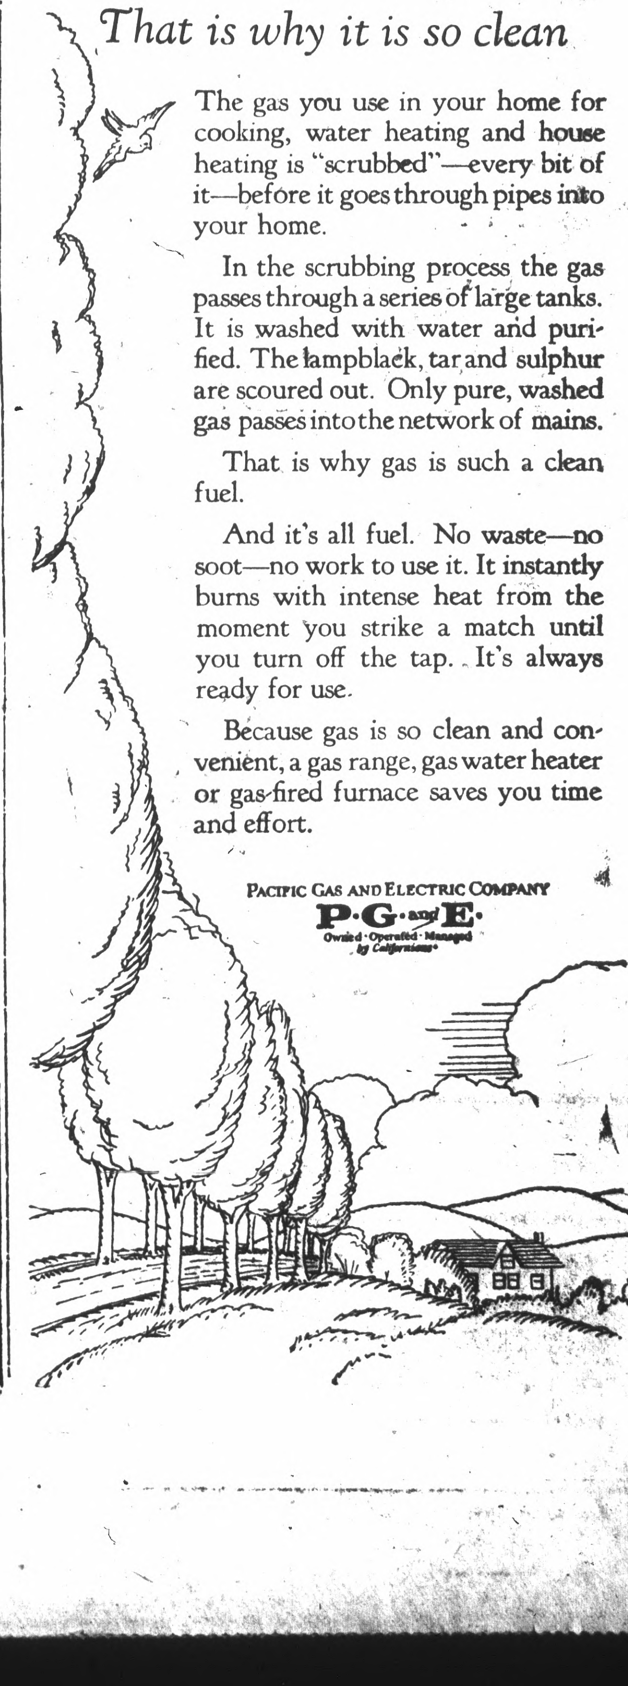
for the home

Every bit of gas is "scrubbed" before you get it

That is why it is so clean



The gas you use in your home for cooking, water heating and house heating is "scrubbed"—every bit of it—before it goes through pipes into your home.

In the scrubbing process the gas passes through a series of large tanks. It is washed with water and purified. The lampblack, tar and sulphur are scoured out. Only pure, washed gas passes into the network of mains.

That is why gas is such a clean fuel.

And it's all fuel. No waste—no soot—no work to use it. It instantly burns with intense heat from the moment you strike a match until you turn off the tap. It's always ready for use.

Because gas is so clean and convenient, a gas range, gas water heater or gas-fired furnace saves you time and effort.

RICHMOND GRID TEAM TO MEET M'CLYMOND'S

The undefeated Richmond Union eleven meets the crack team of McClymond high school on their grounds this afternoon. As the McClymond bunch won the O. A. L. championships last year, the game today is conceded to be one of the hardest for Richmond this year.

Kenny Swenson, left halfback, will be shifted to center by Coach Ivan Hill for this game. Swenson is a utility player having played at end tackle, guard, quarter and full. Charley Jackson, the regular center, will be out of the game on account of illness.

There is a slight chance that the Oilers back field will be weakened by the loss of Joe Williams, quarterback, who is laid up by a sprained ankle. Williams received his injury in the Pittsburg high game, but it was believed at the time that it would not keep him out of the line-up for Friday's contest. In case Williams is unable to play Bumgarner will be on hand to call signals.

The probable line-up will be: Fitzpatrick and Johnson, ends; Rischer and Schaeffer, tackles; Diamantini and Rountree, guards; Swenson, center; Scarcella and Bumgarner, halves; Williams, quarter, and Baldwin, full.

Junior Gridders Defeat Oakland

The Richmond high class B football eleven defeated the light weights of the Oakland high school at Nicholl partk by a score of 12 to 6.

"Rusty" Lane of the local team made the first touchdown early in the game. In the second quarter of the game, Doyle Taylor ran across the goal line for six more points.

Coach Ernie Barbieri's team were held in the second half by the Oakland aggregation which apparently found itself, for it kept Richmond from making the large gains through the line that marked the first half. Over-eagerness on the part of the Oilers, resulted in the Oakland touchdown that came late in the third canto. Although Richmond tried hard hard in the last period of play. score again. The game ended with Barbieri's charges were unable to the local boys threatening their opponents' goal.

The lineup was: Dalton and Shoemaker, ends; Carson and Logan, tackles; Basford and Ogden, guards; Heegar, center; Taylor and Hurley, halves; Weeks, quarter and Lane, full.

Melvin Avila Wins High Tennis Title

Melvin Avila, captain of the Roosevelt Junion high school team won the racquet championship recently held at the school, according to Herbert Hunn, director of the tournament.

A team to represent the school has been selected from the players taking part in the tourney. Five places have already been filled. They are:

Capt. Melvin Avila, Manager James Hurley, Ugo Goschetti, Francis Mythen and George Miller.

The sixth place will be filled from the winner of matches between Phillip Coles, Agidio Aspesi Dean Pruden, James Kenny.

Immediate competition with other schools will be started, Hunn reported. Meets with Richmond Union high school and junior high schools of neighboring cities is planned.

Gene drove Jack to the ropes with a left and then sent a right to the body. They clinched. Tunney led with a left and missed with a hard right at the bell. Tunney's round.

ROUND TWO

The sparred in the center of the ring. Dempsey put in a straight left to body. Then Jack stepped in with a hard right to the jaw.

Gene sent a right cross to the jaw and they fell into another clinch. Tunney held Dempsey's arms and got in another to the head as they clinched again. Jack shot a straight left to the body and they clinched.

ROUND THREE

They sparred for a few seconds with Dempsey crouching and waiting for an opening. Dempsey was short with a left to the body and they clinched.

Tunney was backing away and Jack went in with a left to the face and when they clinched Dempsey landed half dozen light blows to the body.

Then Tunney forced Jack to the ropes and landed half a dozen light blows to Dempsey's body.

They sparred in the center of the ring. Tunney went in and sent a short left to the face and took a right to the jaw as a return.

Dempsey was short with a left to the body and a left to the face. Dempsey missed with a hard swing to the body and Tunney sent in a hard left to the face as they fell into a clinch.

Dempsey was using the rabbit punch in the clinches which is illegal.. Tunney put in a short right to the face as the round ended.

ROUND FOUR

Jack sent a light left to the stomach and the champion caught him with a left to the jaw. Gene put lefts and rights to Dempsey's head and was pummeling him as they clinched.

Tunney was forcing the punching and the referee warned Dempsey for his rabbit punching.

Tunney got two lefts to the head and followed with a right to the jaw. Tunney put another right to Dempsey's jaw and Dempsey was wabbly.

Gene hooked him with another right to the jaw at the bell.

Dempsey was wobbly as he went to his corner.

ROUND FIVE

At the bell they sparred in the center of the ring, and Gene suddenly tore in with a terrific left to the jaw, and then sent in another left to the face and then another right to the jaw.

The champion put two lefts to the face and they clinched. Dempsey started to hit low in the clinch. Gene forced Jack to the ropes and pummeled him with lefts and rights to the face. Gene shot a left to the face and another right to the jaw.

They clinched, Tunney missed two short left leads and then shot a left hook and a right cross to the jaw, Jack sent in two left hooks to Tunney's jaw, and they clinched.

Gene put a light left to the face and Dempsey missed a short right for the same place. Tunney was in with a hard left to the jaw and followed with a right as the bell sounded.

ROUND SIXTH

They squared for an opening at the beginning of the round in the middle of the ring and were trying to feint each other for a lead.

Dempsey put in a left to Tunney's jaw and received a hard right for the trouble. Tunney sent in a left to the face and they clinched. After the break, Gene was in with a left to the face and a terrific right to the jaw.

ROUND SEVEN

Dempsey rushed out of his corner with renewed confidence and looking for an opening.

Gene was short with a hard right for the body.

Dempsey put a left hook to the jaw and Tunney went down for a count of nine.

Dempsey tore after him, in renewed vigor. Dempsey is chasing Tunney around the ring.

Tunney kept punching at Dempsey's stomach. Dempsey chased him, Gene stabbing and clinching.

Gene is apparently tired and Dempsey motions him to fight.

Dempsey sent a hard hit to the jaw and they clinched. Tunney kept breaking ground and tried to wear off the round.

They mixed at the bell, and Tunney appeared tired.

ROUND EIGHT

Tunney appeared to recover as he came out of his corner. Dempsey crouched and wanted Gene to lead.

Gene sent a left to Jack's jaw and they clinched. They traded lefts to the head and in a half clinch Dempsey sent a left to the body. Dempsey was short with a left hook for the body and Gene sent in a left to Jack's jaw and they clinched.

Jack landed left hook to the jaw and they clinched again. The champion knocked Dempsey down with a right to the jaw. He was down for a count of one.

Jack was unsteady and Tunney shot lefts to the jaw. Tunney rocked Jack with left and rights to the head.

They sparred in a neutral corner at the bell.

ROUND NINE

Jack rushed out of his corner and shot a left hook that went wild. They fell into a clinch and Jack was using the rabbit again.

Gene put a right cross to the chin and they clinched again. Tunney sent a light left to the face and put in another in the same place. Dempsey missed with a hard right and Tunney smashed a terrific right to the jaw.

Gene hit Dempsey on the jaw and followed with a right to the body. Dempsey's left eye was bleeding and Gene bore in after him in relentless fashion.

They sparred in the middle of the ring and Jack shot a left to the body but the champion was right in with two solid rights to the jaw.

Gene missed with a hard right and then went in and was all over Jack with rights and lefts to the head.

Tunney forced the fighting with Dempsey on the defensive at the bell.

ROUND TEN

They shook hands as they started in for the last round. They sparred in the center of the ring and Gene shot a left to the face.

And then Jack wrestled Tunney. Dempsey shot a right to the jaw. Jack tore in furiously with a dying effort to end it all.

Gene missed a hard right to the jaw and they clinched on the ropes. Gene missed with a right and left to the head and Dempsey hung on.

Gene missed with a terrific right and Dempsey was wobbly pretty nearly out at the bell.

Flash: Tunney wins, Decision.

Paralytic Stroke Quickly Relieved

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 21, 19[illegible].
To Whom it May Concern.

For the benefit of other people and as a recommendation for Fong Wan, I frankly say that the Fong Wan Herbs have relieved my right arm which was paralyzed. For about two months I could not move that arm at all. Although I tried medical doctors and a chiropractic, my condition remained the same.

Acting upon the advice of a friend I tried the Fong Wan Chinese Herbs. After the first four days, I could raise my arm, and at the end of two weeks, my recovery was complete. The Fong Wan Herbs are nice, clean and fragrant. They are wonderfully compounded and put up in neat packages. I cook them at home. For such marvelous and speedy relief, I am glad to give this testimonial.

5515 SCHOOLS BELOW COLLEGE IN CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 22.—With more than 5515 school plants at their command before they enter college, California's youths of today are well equipped for blazing their trails into the halls of higher education fame. The number of school plants available for those desiring to further their education is shown in the latest recapitulation by the state department of education.

Starting in with those who must gain first knowledge of their "abc's" there are more than 907 kindergartens conducted for the tots not quite ready to enter the larger classrooms. Following their training in this branch there are 4125 elementary and grammar schools whose doors are waiting for them to open in their pursuit of learning.

Having graduated from the grammar classes, the children have 466 high schools available, and from these can step into one of seven state teachers' colleges or one of ten junior colleges to procure the first two years of college work before leaving home.

The department of education figures show there are 121 junior high schools maintained in California, 21 of them being in Alameda county and 51 in Los Angeles, along with 57 senior high schools, where the last two or three years of high school work is given, and 288 other institutions where the full four-year course is offered.

Teachers' colleges are maintained at Arcata, Chico. Fresno, San Jose, San Francisco, Santa Barbara and San Diego.

Junior colleges are conducted at Ontario, Fullerton, Kentfield, Marin county; Modesto, Pasadena, Riverside, Sacramento, San Bernardino, San Mateo and Santa Ana.

Congressman Curry Confers With Officials On Harbor

Confidence in the approval of a re-survey of the Richmond harbors for the widening and deepening of the channel was expressed in Sacramento Wednesday by Congressman Charles F. Curry in a conference with city officials of Richmond attending the conclave of the League of California municipalities.

Present at the conference from Richmond were:

Mayor Mattie A. Chandler, City Manager J. A. McVittie, City Clerk, A. C. Faris, City Engineer E. A. Hoffman, and Councilmen A. L. Paulsen and W. W. Scott.

With the approval of the government, the channel will be widened to 400 feet and deepened to 32 feet. The government at present recognizes a channel 200 feet wide and 24 feet deep. The city is now dredging the harbor to a depth of 3 0feet and must maintain the chanel in excess of the 24 feet recognized by the government.

The funds derived from the recent passing of the $690,000 in harbor bonds will provide the city's portion of the work, the government to match it with an equal amount providing the re-survey is affirmed. The harbor will then be maintained by the government.

The funds from the bonds also provide for a new wharf and warehouse facilities at the inner harbor.

Watson Lawyers Leave For Inyo

MARTINEZ, Sept. 22.—T. D. Johnston and A. F. Bray, two of the battery of attorneys who will defend Major C. P. Watson of Inyo county, when he comes to trial here on October 4, on a grand jury indictment charging illegal possession and transportation of dynamite, some of which, authorities claim, was found in a blasted section of the Los Angeles aqueduct, will leave here tomorrow night for Inyo to interview witnesses and conclude defense plans. The attorneys will spend several days in Owens Valley.

The lawyers announced it as their intention to subpoena between fifteen and twenty Owens Valley ranchers as witnesses for the major's defense.

Garrard Death Memorialized By B. P. W.

The following expressing the sorrow of the members and the great civic loss suffered by Richmond in the passing of the late City Councilman and Richmond's first mayor, E. J. Garrard, was unanimously adopted by the Richmond Business and Professional Women's club of Richmond. This resolution was ordered spread upon the minutes and copies sent to the family of Mr. Garrard, and to his late associates on the City Council.

WHEREAS, the passing of the late E. J. Garrard has removed from our midst a citizen of sterling qualities, of unselfish ambition, and who was tremendously active in civic affairs.

AND WHEREAS, his death will not only be felt in the counsels of our city officials but will touch every movement for Richmond's progress where he was an outstanding figure for more than twenty-one years.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that we, the members of the Richmond Business and Professional Women's Club extend our sympathy to the family of our late fellow citizen, and assure them that we share in their sorrow, and their grief.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of this Resolution be spread upon our minutes, and copies forwarded to the Honorable Mayor and City Council and to the family of E. J. Garrard.

Richmond Man Is Missing 10 Days

Missing since the morning of September 12, no word has been received from Ernest Russo, 44,, 119 Schrock avenue, North Richmond, according to his wife in a report to the police yesterday. San Francisco authorities have been communicated with and arrangements have been made to broadcast the report over radio.

Russo is described as 44 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall, dark complexioned, black hair, brown eyes, weight about 136 pounds, false teeth and the third finger of right hand is missing.

Mrs. Russo stated that her husband left the home at 5:30 a. m. on September 12, telling his family that he was going out to seek employment. He has not been heard from since, and it is not known whether he had planned to go outside the city.

Carquinez Span Problems To Be Told By Calder

The great engineering problems encountered and overcome in the construction of the Carquinez bridge will be revealed in an illustrated technical talk by Geo. J. Calder, resident engineer and now vice-president of the American Toll-Bridge Company, before the American Society of Civil Engineers meeting in Los Angeles on Wednesday, October 12.

Old Manassa Mauler Tries Comeback In Seventh Round

not be expected the know just how to demean himself. Under the circumstances, probably sheer instinct caused him to get to one knee, with Dave Barry, the referee, repeating the count of the timekeeper in Tunney's ear, Dempsey near by his dark scowling countenance flecked with blood, his eyes gleaming fiercely, his gloves raised as he set himself like an animal for the spring.

CROWD HYSTERICAL

The count went to nine, with the great crowd spread out over Soldiers Field screaming hysterically in the wolf cry of the human, scenting the kill. Some say it was good twelve, but that is something to be argued later in columns of columns of comment.

COUNT HELD "LONG"

It seemed a long time even to a neutral. Once he got on his feet, Tunney began running backwards as only a skillful boxer in distress knows how to run. Back, back, back he went, with the glowering Dempsey fairly grunting in anger as he pursued, Dempsey bobbing his body and flinging his hands in a wild effort to reach the fleeing Tunney.

"Stand still and fight," yelled the Dempsey adherent.

DEMPSEY CROWD CRAZED

TUNNEY, GROCERY MAN

Then as calmly as a delicatesan dealer slicing up his bologna, he proceeded to cut Dempsey to pieces with his searing left. It was a fairly even fight as I saw it going into the tenth, with the knock-down weighing strongly in Dempsey's favor.

But all throughout 10th Tunney battered Dempsey until the ex-champion streamed blood from wounds over his eyes, and from bruised lips.

"COUNTS" PREDICTED

I imagine that the subsequent months will develop much argument over that count when not more than the bat of an eye represented the time difference running against Dempsey's recover of his title.

I doubt if it will produce another match between the two, however, for Tunney demonstrated tonight what he proved at Philadelphia a year ago, that barring an unforeseen punch he is easily Dempsey's master at the boxing game.
